HIJACKED JET REFUELS: A Western Airlines 737 jet hijacked on a flight from Salt Lake City to Los Angeles by a gun-wielding self-proclaimed revolutionary refuels in a brief 30-minute stop at Tampa International Airport Saturday at daybreak for the last leg of a 15-hour flight to Cuba. The hijacker, described as nervous and about 21 years old, ordered the plane to Havana with 61 passengers and crew aboard. (AP Wirephoto)

Extortionist Bails Out Over Remote Mexican Jungle

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

An armed hijacker apparently bailed out over a remote Mexican jungle today, presumably with $303,000 extorted from Eastern Air Lines, while a second American passenger jet was commandeered to Cuba.

The disappearance of an armed Vietnam veteran who had demanded the ransom money and six parachutes culminated a hijacking which had begun Friday in Pennsylvania.

The sky pirate boarded the Eastern 727 jet in Allentown, Pa., and after two stops at Washington's Dulles Airport and one at New Orleans, directed the plane toward British Honduras. He then changed his mind and bailed out over Mexico.

During the stop at New Orleans, he traded the original three-engine jet, by then reportedly hobbled with a hydraulic problem, for a fresh Eastern 727.

On the first stop at Dulles the hijacker was given the $303,000 and the parachutes in return for releasing the 48 passengers and one stewardess, one of seven crew members. But he ordered the plane back to Dulles to exchange his ransom for one in bills of a larger denomination.

The second hijacking began Friday afternoon shortly after a Western Airlines 737 jet left Salt Lake City for Los Angeles, where an armed sky pirate released four children and seven adult passengers and said he wanted to be flown to Hanoi, North Vietnam, but decided instead on Cuba.

The hijacker, who demanded U.S. withdrawal from Indochina and passage to a Communist country, then took off with 64 passengers and six crewmen for Dallas, Tex., and a refueling stop.

The plane then went to Tampa, Fla., to refuel again, and then headed for Cuba, arriving in Havana early today.

The Eastern hijacker, described as well dressed, well-spoken and businesslike, carrying what one passenger said was a .38-caliber revolver, made the plane circle the Washington area for 5½ hours and then return to Dulles because he did not like the denomination of the bills in the ransom.

He had demanded payment in bills of $100, $500 and $1,000, apparently to make a lighter bundle for a parachute getaway. The airline originally paid him in $100 bills, saying it was all they could get on short notice. But the larger bills were provided on the second stop.

This was the 11th hijacking since last Nov. 12 in which a hijacker sought a ransom and the 10th in which a ransom and parachutes were requested. Arrests have been made in

Eight Parties Seek Berths

Looks Like Crowded State Ballot

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Two parties widely separated on the political spectrum, the Communist and the Conservative, filed petitions Friday for space on the 1972

Michigan election ballot in November.

So did backers of the Non-partisan Judiciary party, which seeks to run Judge Charles L. Levin of the Michigan Court of Appeals for the State Supreme Court.

If both the Communist and Conservative parties have enough valid signatures to qualify, it will bring to eight the number of full-fledged party columns on the ballot. That would be the most since 1938. There were 10 in 1934.

The Republican, Democratic, American Independent, Human Rights, Socialist Workers and Socialist Labor parties qualified earlier for space on the ballot.

State Elections Director Bernard Apol said the Nonpartisan Judiciary party would not be given space for a full slate of candidates on the ballot unless the party ran somebody for a partisan office.

The Communists, who last appeared on the Michigan ballot in 1940, showed up in the morning with a cardboard box carrying over 23,000 petition signatures. It takes the signatures of 14,239 registered voters to qualify a party for the ballot.

State chairman Thomas Dennis had to make a trip back to Detroit, however, to get official letters of intent to file and a copy of the party insignia—a hammer held by a black and white hand.

Shortly before the 5 p.m. closing of the elections office, former State Sen. Robert Huber of Troy filed petitions for his Conservative party. He said more petitions would be filed Monday.

Huber, an industrialist who nearly upset Lenore Romney in the 1970 Republican U.S. senatorial primary, said he hasn't decided whether to run for the

Nine Die In Rest Home Fire

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — At least nine persons died today in an early morning fire that swept a convalescent home. Thirty persons were reported injured.

The entire second story of the two-story Carver Convalescent Home was said to be engulfed in flames when the firemen arrived. There was no immediate word on the cause of the fire.

The nine were pronounced dead on arrival at Springfield's Memorial Hospital. At least two others were admitted to the burn unit at the hospital, and the hospital reported treating eight other persons for smoke inhalation.

St. John's Hospital in Springfield reported treating an additional 20 persons for injuries. The nature of the injuries was not immediately known.

Movie Director, 114 Others Die In Air Disaster

PALERMO, Italy (AP) — An Alitalia DC8 crashed in flames against a Sicilian mountain Friday night killing all 115 persons aboard.

The victims included Franco Indovina, noted Italian movie director. He was one of many Italian passengers aboard the flight en route from Rome to their native Sicily to vote in weekend elections. He had directed such films as "Family Italian Style," and "Particular Games." Police reported charred bodies and no sign of life at the scene of the crash on a densely wooded slope near the town of Carini, three miles from Palermo. The four-jet DC8 had made contact with the Palermo control tower and was preparing to land when contact was broken, airport sources said.

Witnesses at Carini said the jet was in flames before it struck the mountainside. The weather was clear at the time. The burning plane set fire to the woods.

Alitalia said passenger lists are not used on its domestic flights but all but two or three of the passengers were Italian.

Two other plane crashes this year claimed more than 100 lives each. A Danish charter jet carrying 106 European tourists and a crew of six crashed on a Persian Gulf mountainside in March, killing all 112 aboard. In January, all 104 persons aboard perished in the crash of a Spanish airliner in the fog-bound Balearic Islands.

The worst aviation disaster on record was the collision of a domestic All Nippon airliner and a Japanese air force jet in which 162 persons perished last July.

Democrats Claim Milliken Opposes Tax Reform Plan

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Top Michigan Democrats charged Friday that Republican Gov. William Milliken actually opposes part of a statewide tax reform proposal he has endorsed.

The Democrats, in a news conference promoting a different plan, criticized Milliken for lending his name to a Michigan Education Association (MEA) proposal. In part it asks voters to permit the legislature to change the state's flat-rate personal income tax to a rate graduated along the lines of the federal income tax.

Milliken was not available for comment on the charge. He has spoken on behalf of the MEA proposal, but once said he would not sign the petitions himself.

The question on the income tax is part of a two-piece educational tax reform package which the MEA is seeking to put on the November general election ballot.

The other part would reduce property taxes.

Democrats also are promoting a tax reform proposal calling for far more detailed changes in the constitution's definition of taxing power. They propose combining the property tax and graduated tax questions in a single ballot proposal, rather than separating them as the MEA would.

Democrats called back their drive and rewrote the petitions after the State Supreme Court issued a ruling which appeared to many to create a constitutional loophole allowing local governments virtually unlimited taxing power.

Democratic state chairman James McNeely, House Speaker William Ryan of Detroit, former state chairman Neil Staebler and State Sen. Coleman Young of Detroit were among party luminaries lambasting Milliken Friday.

However, Democrats have admitted that they recalled their first petition drive not to correct any loophole, but to counteract any subsequent charges that their wording was defective.

Friday's news conference also served as a kickoff for the

Order Environmental Study For Cook, Palisades Plants

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Launching of a five-year study on the environmental effects of nuclear power plants heating Lake Michigan waters has been announced by the State Department of Agriculture.

The project will monitor possible modifications of local climates near the Cook Nuclear Plant at Bridgman being built by Indiana and Michigan Electric Company, and the Consumers Power Co. Palisades plant near South Haven.

Nuclear reactors at the plants use large amounts of water for cooling, and disposal of the heated water and its effects on local weather are the objects of the study, said B. Dale Ball, agriculture department director.

In response to public pressure, Consumers Power agreed to install $25 million in cooling equipment to keep heated water out of Lake Michigan, but, Ball said Friday, there is little scientific information upon which to judge the effectiveness of the equipment.

The estimated $469,000 cost of the monitoring project will be funded by the two power companies and the federal Sea Grant program, Ball said.

An Inconsolable Reply To An Irate Reader's Letter

Among today's Letters To Ye Ed is a complaint from Mrs. Kenneth Sipress, a Fairplain resident.

She objects strenuously to a new ordinance in St. Joseph Township requiring future home construction to include either a garage or a carport for two automobiles; and she takes us to task for not publicizing sufficiently what she views as a plot by the Township Board to raise the local tax base.

We admit to not giving the suggestion Page One treatment. It is a matter of editorial judgment, one admittedly open to reader criticism, as to what stories receive greater emphasis than others.

As regards recent developments in the Township's affairs, we felt its sewer and water problems and costs to be of overriding, general interest, and have devoted greater attention to them than to other happenings with a seemingly more personalized effect.

We could be wrong on that approach, but that's the picture we see at the moment.

The Board's adoption of the garage requirement, while it may very well raise valuations on new construction which otherwise might not exist, is less a taxing scheme than an extension of the life style in middle class suburbia.

The Township Board members' thinking reflects the physical characteristics of the area and its residents' desires. If that thinking deviates to any noticeable degree from its well spring, then new faces will soon appear on the Board to bring the two back into line.

The post World War II subdividing of the Township's farms and orchards into housing sites has been premised on high-grade, single family construction.

In its earlier years this flight from the city to the country (from Benton Harbor proper to a major extent) was relatively cheap.

Interest rates were on the down side; labor and materials for a house were at eye level; that somewhat overworked phrase, quality education, fitted within the 15-mill tax pie; water, sewer, police and fire protection did not present a problem.

The more, though, a farming area is densified into a residential community the higher the cost of living in the latter is bound to rise; and unless its residents are willing to shoulder that cost, what began as a desirable area will become a slum.

Stiff zoning and building codes are a part of the cost in creating and maintaining a good area. They are designed to keep up a good appearance.

Requiring the home owner to garage his vehicles rather than park them on the lawn fits into that aesthetic pattern.

The demand does, as Mrs. Sipress protests, cast the Township Board in Big Brother's role and make another dent in the pocketbook.

At the same time it protects the original investment and resale value of all the housing in the Township.

The latter, we believe, is an overriding concern among most Township residents. Certainly, every move taken by their officials mirrors that viewpoint.

The garage ordinance consequently is merely another expression from the neighborhood.

Its legalistic language is really saying one can not expect to ride in a Cadillac at a VW price.

Okinawa's Reversion

REVERSION of Okinawa and its sister islands in the Ryukyu chain to Japan on May 15 should come as a happy ending for all concerned. The United States, although it gives up the island, will keep its military base, which is what it wanted the island for in the first place.

Japan, in getting Okinawa back, heals a 27-year-old sore point of national honor and disposes of an issue that has caused much political turmoil and embarrassment to the Japanese government. Okinawa, an autonomous kingdom until a century ago, will return to the bosom of what it has since come to consider its mother country.

How happily all will live ever after remains to be seen for there are problems for each, not likely to be mentioned in the ceremonial speeches of Reversion Day.

Although the United States will keep its $2 billion base, it will not have as free a hand using it as before reversion. This is because U.S. activities on the islands will become subject to U.S.-Japan treaty terms. These not only forbid installation of nuclear weapons on Japanese soil. They also require "prior consultation" with Japan before the United States may launch military operations from bases in Japan or before significant changes may be made in deploying or arming troops on them.

The Okinawa base has served the United States directly in two wars, Korea and Viet Nam. Its most dramatic use has been as a takeoff point for B-52 bombers. It has also served as a fueling and supply station, training ground for troops in jungle warfare, and depot for storing weapons, generally believed to include nuclear arms.

Japan recognizes that "reversion should not hinder the effective discharge of the international obligations assumed for the defense of countries in the Far East, including Japan," Secretary of State William P. Rogers said last autumn. Nevertheless, the "prior consultation" factor could become sticky.

For Japan, the negative side of the picture is largely economic. Reversion means assuming the burden of governing an island group that was Japan's poorest prefecture (state) in the pre-World War II period. Okinawa is a meagerly endowed coral island. Its value to more powerful nations that contended for it in the days of its independence was almost solely its strategic location in the East China Sea. Japan took the island by force in 1879 chiefly to prevent a western nation from gaining a strong foothold there.

Okinawa may have one asset for Japan to offset the costs of administering and providing direct aid to a poor state, surplus labor. For labor short Japan this could be a boon. If it should mean transporting Okinawans to Japan, there might be a problem of assimilation. Cultural differences between Okinawans and Japanese persist despite mutuality on reversion.

For Okinawans, reversion is bound to mean some degree of economic dislocation. The American base will still provide jobs, but budget cutbacks have forced reduction of the U.S. payroll. Islanders fear that once they become part of Japan, theirs will be just another state, no longer to receive favored treatment in Japan's direct aid budget.

The Okinawan diet may also suffer. Under American rule, Okinawans have come to like American style beef. After reversion, the island's meat will be subject to Japan's high tariff. The price of beefsteak is sure to skyrocket.

Moscow Talks

Won't Be Easy

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Bits and pieces of information trickling from behind the Iron Curtain suggest President Nixon will have his hands full in Moscow later this month to keep from being boxed in.

Indications are the Russians are fully aware of the President's political problems—farmers hurting from the heavy supply of feed grains, with Mr. Nixon needing the farm vote. He must have more exports, an improvement in the balance of payments and an outlook to insure his reelection. In addition, because of the hopes he has aroused, he requires some sort of a strategic arms limitation agreement and a noticeable improvement in Vietnam.

The extremely able Soviet ambassador in Washington, Anatoly F. Dobrynin, is known to this reporter as a careful and astute political and economic observer, who most certainly has sent Moscow carefully detailed analyses of Mr. Nixon's domestic problems and what type of public reaction could hurt him most on Nov. 7.

The Russians aim at extracting a heavy price in return for giving Mr. Nixon even part of what he wants. They expect cheap credits for grain, sizable dollar and technological investment in Soviet mining and industry, an easing of U.S. bans on exports of various high-technology goods to Russia and a cutback on U.S. restrictions on imports from the Soviet Union.

Moscow also will demand directly or indirectly, subtly or subtly, Mr. Nixon's cooperation in securing public U.S. and West European recognition of Russia's special position in East Europe and the invariability of that position.

This information comes directly and indirectly from private academic and business sources, from government economic specialists and diplomats dealing with the Russians and from other private organizations with connections in the Soviet Union and East Europe.

The Russians, of course, will attempt to minimize their own serious problems—the growing demand for meat in the Soviet Union and East Europe and the serious political consequences of failing to solve that problem.

They will gloss over the serious winter crop failures and the consequent heavy Soviet need for grain in quantities. They will not stress the Soviet shortage of cash and their urgent need for credit to buy grain in the quantities they require.

They will attempt to hide the very serious internal economic decisions they will be forced to make if U.S. credit is not forthcoming—and the possibly unhappy domestic political repercussions which may follow from those decisions.

The President is doing what he can in advance to keep the very clever Brezhnev from boxing him in. He is pouring aid all-out into the Vietnam war, to break the back of the DMZ invasion before the Moscow visit—so the Russians will not have this to whipsaw him with.

Campus Anti-War

Mood Indifferent

One night last week, well after midnight, the telephone rang in the dormitory room of a Dartmouth student active in conservative politics. What did he think about the bombing in Vietnam? the reporter wanted to know. "I don't care about Vietnam," he answered, hung up, and went back to bed.

That answer wasn't exactly what he meant, at least not quite; the next day, when the quote appeared in print, gasps of horror went up from the Righteous and the Concerned.

Yet his exasperated midnight answer sheds a good deal of light on the campus mood at the moment. Over on the Left, the campus newspaper called for a strike and the cancellation of classes. Nothing happened. Only 50 people went down to Concord for the protest events in the state capital.

True enough, there were riots in Cambridge, Mass., confusion, as usual, at Columbia, and trouble at the University of Maryland. But on the whole, Dartmouth's reaction was more the rule.

The campus newspaper and a handful of radical faculty went to the barricades as they had in 1970, but when they looked around the followers they expected were playing softball. A few observations:

1) Boredom has been a potent factor in all this. There have been too many articles, arguments and speeches about Vietnam for most people to sustain a live interest in the subject. The war has been on the evening news every night for what seems like a millennium. The handful of radical faculty members on campus have begun to seem like mere marionettes, twitching every so often into their familiar routines. Nobody wants to hear any more about it. The previous 500 speeches have been quite enough, thank you.

2) All along, though some indignantly deny it, the draft was a potent factor in the student movement. The draft affected their lives directly and, in a sense, for the average protester, the draft was the war. With the lottery system and the advance toward a volunteer professional army, the emotional root of the protest movement has been severed.

3) The objective in Vietnam has been transformed since 1968 and 1970. Few Americans are dying. The North Vietnamese all too clearly have mounted a conventional invasion, complete with tanks, artillery and rockets. You have to be much further gone in left-wing depravity than most students actually are to be able to side with the invading up-petdog, and march against the use American airpower.

EDITOR'S MAILBAG

Editor,
The Herald-Press:

ATTACKS ZONING CODE AMENDMENT

Referring to your newspaper's coverage of the St. Joseph Township Board meeting of this past Monday evening, it is a sad state of affairs when the township government can tell you that you must build a two-stall garage on your lot if you want to build a new home. Just as sad is the fact that your newspaper gave that zoning code amendment a mere 7 lines of space at the bottom of that board meeting coverage. Why didn't you give it the publicity it deserves—at least at the top of that story?

What kind of publicity did this zoning code amendment get before its adoption? How many of the township residents knew that the board was considering such an amendment, or for that matter, know even now that it has been adopted by the board? The board's action and your slight attention to it certainly leave something to be desired. It would be interesting to know the board's reason for adopting this amendment. I think ALL township residents should call upon the board for an explanation of their action. Its purpose appears to be only to fatten the pocketbook of the money hungry township board at the expense of the township residents' freedom. What about those few people that don't own a car? Or those that own only one vehicle? Or those that just don't want a garage? Perhaps they should build in a township where the governing board has not yet adopted such a restriction. Garages cost dollars to build, dollars to maintain, and ADDED TAX DOLLARS. The best solution to this ridiculous restriction is to fight the board on it. The government is taking away the right to decide what you want. They're telling you that you're going to have it regardless of what you want. Whether or not to have a garage, or how large a garage should be a decision for the homeowner NOT the township board.

If most township residents think that this zoning code amendment will not affect them, they had better give it some more thought. If one township gets away with this kind of restriction then eventually all of the townships will use it as a method of bringing in more TAX dollars. Eventually it will affect almost everyone in one way or another.

FACTS SHOULD BE REVIEWED

Several of the anti-abortionists who responded to your editorial should review the "facts" they presented.

Kathleen Hutchins stated, "But when one fully realizes that at six weeks after fertilization, a fetus is fully recognizable as a human being, it is a pretty harsh moral judgment on the part of anyone to say he has no right what-

I wish to point out that at six weeks, the developing human is an embryo, not a fetus. It is less than an inch long, weighs a fraction of an ounce, and has a tail. Any book on child development contains a picture and description of an embryo. I quote Mussen, Congor, and Kagan, CHILD DEVELOPMENT AND PERSONALITY, "At this stage, the embryo is still a very primitive organism. It has as yet no arms or legs, no developed features, and only the most elementary of body systems."

I would like to know how she finds it "fully recognizable as a human being." Before she answers, I suggest she study a chicken embryo and compare

Realtor Puts Confidence In Downtown BH

Buys Building On Main Street

Robert F. Kay, owner of Robert F. Kay Real Estate Co., announced he has purchased the M. W. Stock Trust building at 145 West Main street, Benton Harbor.

The building is one of the most substantial and attractive structures in the downtown area. Kay said there was extensive modernizing in 1963 at a cost of $340,000 and more than $112,000 was spent in 1971 in remodeling for Michigan Bell, the principal tenant.

U.S. Internal Revenue service and Kay Real Estate occupy most of the second floor. The IRS is slated to move in the future to the old Benton Harbor post office which is being converted into a federal office building.

Kay said financing was arranged through Farmers & Merchants National bank.

Purchase of the building represents faith by Kay in downtown, he commented: "I believe there is good business potential in downtown Benton Harbor today and in the future."

"The old concept, as we once knew it, is definitely gone, but this is happening in every city today. The primary reason for this change is that shopping has become a matter of convenience."

Kay sees a need for downtown stores of a specialty type to serve customers who work downtown and those living close to downtown.

"It would seem to me," said Kay, "the remaining downtown merchants have a definite advantage over the merchants in the present shopping centers in that their (downtown) overhead costs are less. It should be possible for them to have more sales and sell cheaper than the merchant who has the high overhead in a center."

Kay noted that when downtown merchants do promote a sale it creates brisk business. "A good aggressive merchant can still make a business success in downtown Benton Harbor."

"It is my opinion that in the foreseeable future downtown Benton Harbor will consist of financial institutions, public utilities offices, specialty services and stores, and a small shopping area . . ."

Kay said downtown Benton Harbor receives a lot of bag-mouthing, much of it undeserved and blown out of proportion.

"If you will note, the downtown has been noticeably serene except for one or two incidents, and there is no possible way to control all the people all the time. Possibly our people have recognized that we do have to live and work together for the mutual benefit of all people."

"There will always be a need for a centralized business district and with the cooperation of our people it can become an area to be proud to be part of. Benton Harbor can and will regain its status as the central business area of south-west Michigan."

Store Owner Shot By Young Gunmen

The owner of Harbor Fisheries, William Wellings, 69, was treated at Mercy hospital for gunshot wounds that he said were inflicted Friday afternoon by three young men who entered the store at 219 South Fair avenue, Benton township.

Wellings was discharged from the hospital after treatment of wounds to the right hand and arm, left hand, left side of the head, and a superficial wound to the chest, police reported.

Township police, called to the store at 3:06 p.m., said it appeared that no money was taken. Officers said no motive has been determined and the case remains under investigation.

Patrolman Roger Spencer,

first officer at the scene, said Wellings told him three men entered the store, asked for a pack of cigarettes and put 52 cents on the counter. Spencer said Wellings stated that he turned around to get the cigarettes when, "They started shooting me." Wellings said he fell to the floor and screamed, and the three fled. Wellings was apparently alone in the store, police said. One slug was found in a wall about a foot above the cash drawer, and a pack of cigarettes was found on the floor. Another slug was taken from Wellings' left index finger by a physician.

The police department reported that the slugs are believed to be about .32 caliber, but are undergoing further tests. No weapon was reported found at the scene. Wellings told one officer that one of the men did the shooting.

Descriptions and methods of escape varied, according to witnesses questioned. Wellings said the three were black and well dressed. He estimated the ages at 16 or 17, but later estimated the ages in the 20's, police reported.

One witness said three men ran from the store and fled in a red auto, parked at the rear. Another said three men left the area in a green auto. Still another reported seeing two youths climb over a fence off Hall and run south through a field.

Police said a physician estimated that Wellings had been shot three or possibly four, times.

PROPRIETOR SHOT: William Wellings, 69, owner of Harbor Fisheries, 219 South Fair avenue, Benton township, was shot several times Friday afternoon when three young men entered the store. Apparently no money was taken and the motive has not been determined. Wellings was released after treatment at Mercy hospital.

BH Collection Agency Operator Barred From 'Practicing Law'

Counsel for a Benton Harbor collections agency operator and his circuit court suit opponent stipulated Friday in Berrien circuit court that the operator has been unlawfully practicing law in Fifth district court.

With the stipulation, Judge Chester J. Byrns Friday enjoined Dennis L. Baugher, operator of Midwest Collections Agency, from practicing law in district court—in effect barring him from filing suits or garnishments on behalf of other parties.

Baugher was the target of a suit by Dennis Hutcherson of Lake Michigan Beach, filed by Berrien Legal Services Director Edward Yampolsky. Yampolsky and Baugher's counsel, Benton Harbor Atty. Seymour Zaban, made the Friday stipulation.

Judge Byrns from the bench recommended that district court assure the propriety of filers of suit in that court.

He also stayed until further order of his court any further proceedings in district court on a $542.72 judgment taken last Dec. 8 against Hutcherson by Baugher on behalf of Superior Employees' Credit Union of Benton Harbor.

There remain two issues at circuit court, Judge Byrns said: Whether the judgment is invalid; and if invalid, whether Hutcherson is entitled to damages as a result of the judgment.

Also recently in circuit court: Pedro Pantoja of Van Buren county filed suit seeking $250,000 against Paul E. Thompson, operator of Keeler tavern in Keeler township of Van Buren county, claiming a tavern patron assaulted Pantoja Oct. 3, 1971, resulting in loss of vision in his left eye.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel W. Shuburte of Benton Harbor filed suit seeking $100,000 damages against a St. Joseph father and son, Kenneth and Dean Allen Current, for injuries Shuburte allegedly suffered in a two-car crash last Dec. 18 in Benton Harbor.

Mr. and Mrs. David Hall of Benton Harbor filed suit seeking $150,000 damages against Janice Belle Barnes of Benton Harbor for injuries Mrs. Hall allegedly suffered in a two-car crash in Benton Harbor Dec. 18, 1970.

Inter-City Bank of Benton Harbor filed suit against a former St. Joseph couple, Mr. and Mrs. Donald G. MacArthur, seeking $10,259.97 allegedly due on a short-term promissory note executed last Jan. 7. The MacArthurs are now of California.

Bennett O. Hill of Berrien county filed suit seeking $12,600 against Machinery Specialties Corp. of Berrien county for an allegedly unpaid promissory note and loan.

SARETT NATURE

New Bird Banding Program Planned

A bird banding program is to be inaugurated at the Sarett nature center, Benton Center road, in Benton township Sunday at 2 p.m.

Charles Nelson, director-naturalist at the center, will review the banding program and demonstrate techniques for capturing and banding birds.

Nelson has been recently licensed to band and carry out a banding program.

Hull Pupils Like George Wallace

It was Wallace in a breeze in a presidential poll conducted recently among seventh and eighth grade students at Hull school in the Benton Harbor district.

George Wallace garnered 83 votes while runnersup Shirley Chisholm and Hubert Humphrey each had 46.

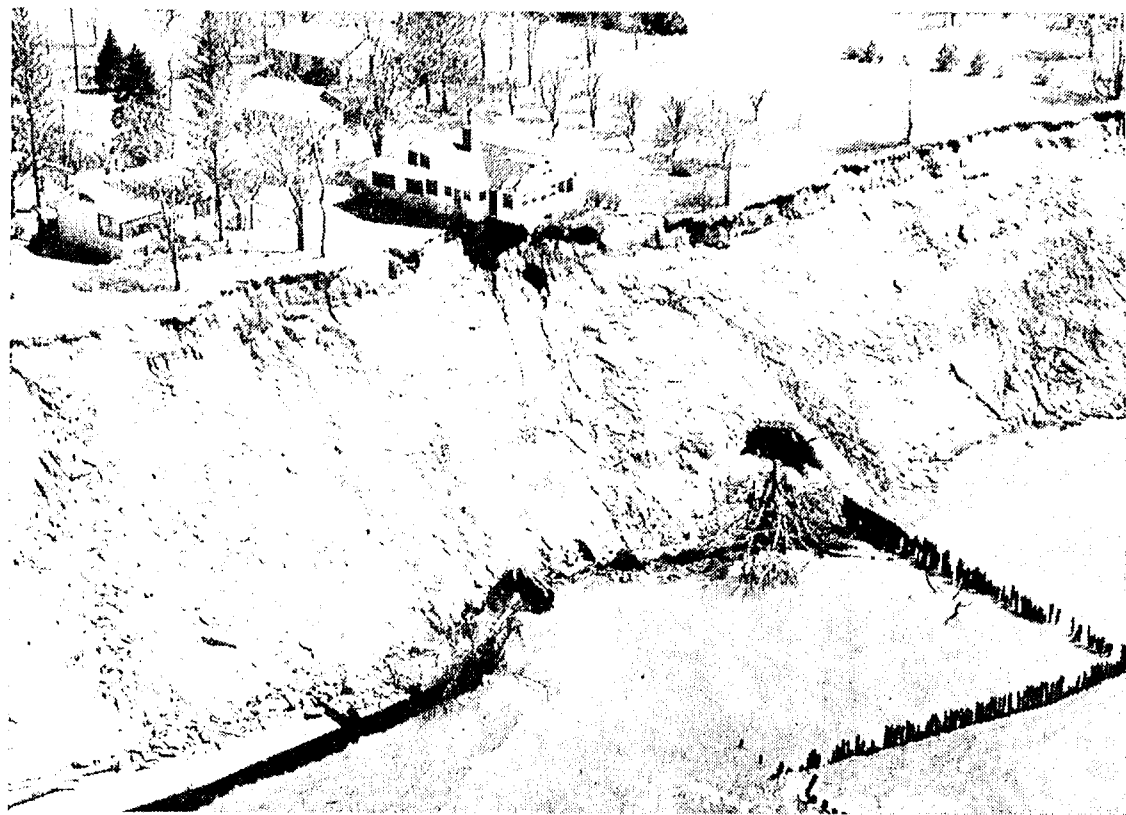

Other totals: Edward Kennedy, 40; Richard Nixon, 26; George McGovern, 6;

Paul McCloskey, 3; John Lindsay, 2; Patsy Mink, 2; Edmund Muskie, 2, and one each for Wilbur Mills, Julian Bond and Pat Paulsen.

A darkhorse candidate gained a smattering of support. Three votes were cast for the Jolly Green Giant.

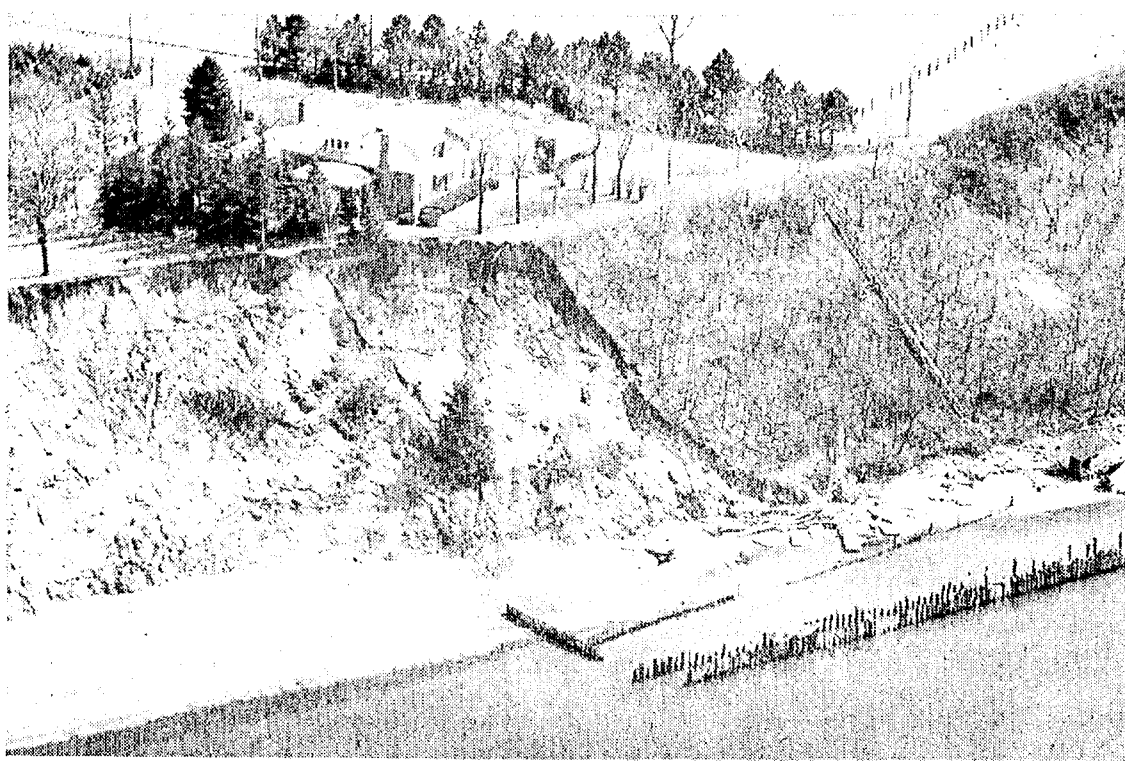

Ballots were counted by student council representatives under direction of Mrs. Genevieve Goosey.

Hungry Lake Keeps Eating Away Shoreline

CRUMBLING SHORELINE: As recently as last fall the imperiled house in this photo was standing on solid ground. Unusually strong winds during winter and spring, however, have chipped away at bluff, leaving rear portion of the house hanging precariously over side of the 70-foot precipice. The house, on south Lakeshore drive and owned by former Berrien county sheriff Erwin Kubath, reportedly is still occupied. Trees lying at lake level were also victims of erosion, taking large clods of earth with them as they slipped from bluff top. (Aerial photos by Adolph Hann) more and more susceptible to erosion by wave action. Corner of Sisters of the Good Shepard convent seen at top of bluff now stands about 10 feet from the edge, 20 feet closer than a year ago. Trees from grove beside the convent are seen on way down bluff.

Group Favors Nature Center Over Park At Hartford Site

By SANDRA ENGLE
Special Correspondent

HARTFORD — A group of Hartford residents are seeking to change the site of the proposed Hartford Community park.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Kirsch, 211 North Center street, heading the small group, have already met with a member of the Hartford Recreation council which is developing the park project.

Kirsch said they are not opposed to the park but only its location on marshland near the Paw Paw river north of town.

He suggests the council develop its recreational activities on "existing public owned lands not inhabited by wildlife and where nature won't be destroyed."

They are supported by Charles Nelson, naturalist and director of the Sarett Nature center, owned by the Michigan Audubon Society in Benton township.

After surveying the proposed park — a 45-acre parcel owned by the Hartford public schools — Nelson said the best possible use of the undeveloped land would be as a natural area for outdoor education.

The state department of natural resources has already approved the Hartford park site and proposed development.

Haynes Woolcott, former director of the recreation council who still acts as an advisor, reported at a recent city council meeting that state funds amounting to $15,515 have been okayed but the project is currently delayed while the recreation council files for additional federal funds.

He said there is a chance available funds could be doubled if federal money is approved.

He added the council was aware of the environmental concern and some areas will be left undeveloped for environmental projects. "The state is happy with the project," he told city officials.

Plans for the park include concreting an area for tennis, basketball and ice skating. Later stages would include picnic areas, an open amphitheater, boat launching facilities and camping area.

The Kirsches suggest building the park where land already has concrete and buildings on it.

Kirsch said an existing ice skating site next to the city garage could be used again. Tennis and basketball courts could be built on empty school owned property adjoining the north elementary school parking lot and boat launchings could be made at the Van Buren Sportsman club.

He also questioned the total amount of the state grant being spent on the courts for tennis and basketball.

Kirsch said "The courts will benefit only a small amount of Hartford's citizens. The park is not geared to the total Hartford community — only the athletes — where do the senior citizens and young children go?"

Kirsch supports use of naturalist Nelson's plan for the land.

Nelson said Boy Scouts, 4-H members and others could build nature trails for self-guided walks, and others could use the park for land and water conservation practices, painting, photography, writing, bird watching and educational tours.

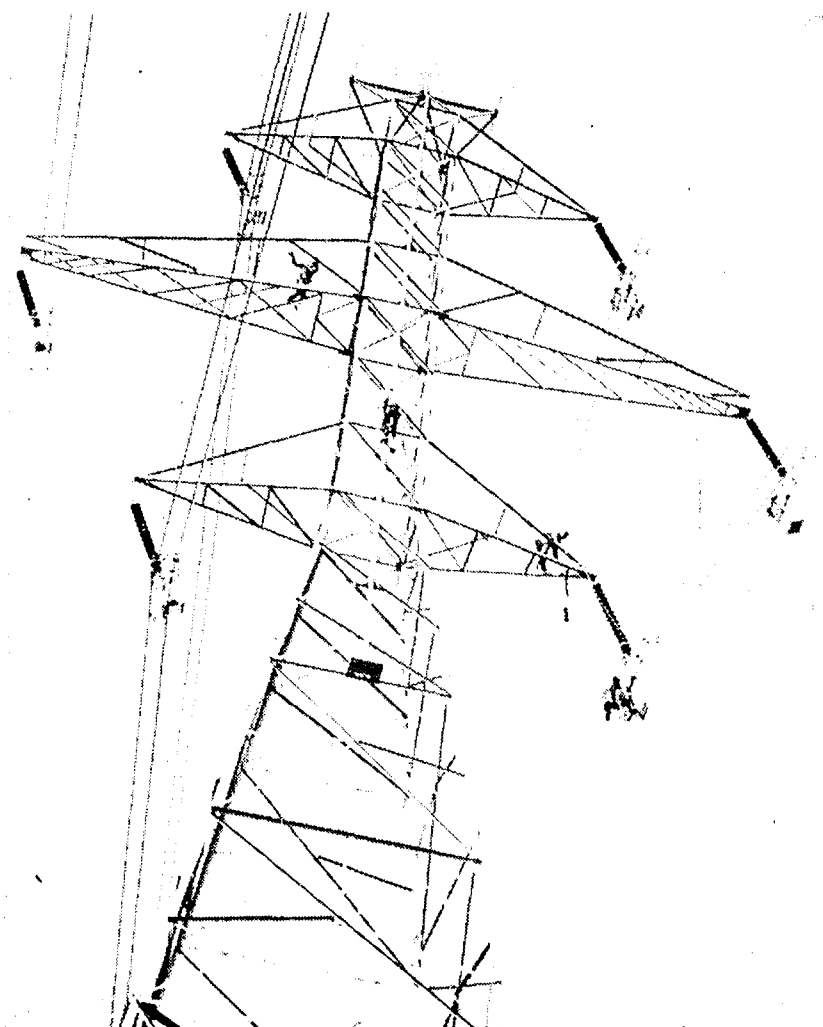

He listed non-compatible uses of the land as picnicking; any kind of camping; use of motorized vehicles; horse back riding; bicycling; hunting or target practice; exercising pets or field or ball sports.

Nelson said, "The Hartford school district owns the land which has the potential of becoming one of the finest school-owned outdoor educational centers in southwestern Michigan. Only rarely does a school have access to such a naturally rich and diverse area which is adjacent to the school itself.

EXPENSIVE SOLUTION: Some residents of the Lake Michigan shoreline, like these in the Grand Mere area south of St. Joseph, have resorted to seawalls to retain their property. The walls, however, cost between $150 and $250 a foot of shoreline, putting them beyond the reach of many. Army Corps of Engineers regulations require permission from neighbors before walls are constructed. Alarmed by erosion threat to Red Arrow highway, State Highway department recently spent $2.29 million on a 6,000 foot wall.

Coloman Going To Academy

COLOMA — James H. Wooley, 18, the son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Wooley, has received a congressional appointment to the United States Military Academy at West Point, New York.

Wooley has been informed by U.S. Representative Edward Hutchinson (R-Fennville) that he has been selected for the appointment. Wooley was chosen by Hutchinson earlier this year to compete with nine other Fourth district candidates for the appointment.

Wooley has accepted the appointment and is to report to West Point July 13 to join the corps of cadets.

College Studying Course Choices In South Berrien

A survey of classwork preferences is currently being conducted by Lake Michigan College in Galien, New Buffalo, River Valley, and Bridgman school districts as a step toward implementing an LMC extension center at River Valley high school.

"We hope to find out what course offerings, times, days of the week, and other educational services the residents of southwestern Berrien county prefer as we plan the opening of the off-campus program next fall," said Ronald Shaffer, community school co-ordinator for the River Valley public schools.

"The survey will give all adult residents of the area an opportunity to select college courses they are interested in as well as their preference of evenings."

The final schedule of college class offerings will be announced after the survey is completed in June.

Next fall, for the first time, LMC college-credit courses will be offered through the community school office of the River Valley public schools. All classes will meet in the River Valley high school. The results of the survey will dictate the courses to be offered and the evenings in which they will be taught.

Courses tentatively being considered at this time for possible offering next fall include Introduction to Philosophy, Introduction to Business, English Composition, Principles of Sociology, History of Western Civilization, National Government, Intermediate Typing, College Algebra, Fundamentals of Speech, Introduction to Psychology, British Literature, American History, Child Psychology, and Law Enforcement.

Garbled Story Explained

A portion of a Friday story on the Berrien county parks and recreation commission drive for support for 4 mills was garbled during the newspaper mechanical reproduction process.

In essence, that section outlined the schedule of proposed millage expenditures—if Berrien county voters approve the millage Aug. 8—that would be allocated year-by-year for parkland acquisition, development and operations. The millage would run 10 years.

The schedule, adopted by consensus by the commission Thursday night, would spend 100 per cent of millage the first three years for parkland acquisition; 65 per cent for acquisition, 25 per cent for development and 10 per cent for operations in years 4 through 7; 60 per cent acquisition, 30 per cent development and 10 per cent operations in year 8; and 50 per cent acquisition, 35 per cent development and 15 per cent operations in years 9 and 10.

Judge Remands Gun Case

A Berrien circuit judge this week ordered the case of a South Bend man accused of carrying a pistol illegally in a car remanded to Fifth district court for further proceedings after the Berrien prosecutor's office appealed a district judge's ruling.

Y.Z. Foster, 37, was accused of carrying a pistol illegally in a car last Jan. 24 after arrest by state troopers in Benton township.

Judge Paul Pollard during preliminary examination ruled a pistol offered by Assistant Prosecutor Ronald Moses was inadmissible because of a delayed police search of Foster's car, Moses reported.

He appealed to Judge Chester J. Byrns of Berrien circuit court, whose opinion orders the case back to Judge Pollard for a determination whether the search was incidental to Foster's arrest—making the pistol inadmissible—or based on probable cause to believe Foster had a gun in the car.

14 Get Perfect Grades

They were among 512 students achieving perfect marks out of a total student body of 39,746.

Petition Filed To Probate Dustin Will

A petition was filed Friday in Berrien probate court to probate the $52,000-plus estate of Mrs. Frieda Franz Dustin, 75, who died April 26 while a St. Joseph township resident.

Her husband, the late Lee Dustin, was superintendent of Berrien Hills country club and Mrs. Dustin was a longtime Fairplain schoolteacher.

A 1966 will bequeaths her estate to two sisters, a brother, two nieces and her late husband's two grandchildren, residents of Michigan and other states.

the differences (if she can find any).

I also wish to take issue with Mr. Hutchins' comments about the irresponsibility of couples who do not "... see to it that, at least, the wife gets vaccinated against Rubella."

While he was diligently digging up facts that minimize the effects of Rubella on the unborn, he should have taken time to learn that Rubella vaccine is not readily available to women. The effects of the vaccine on prenatal development are unknown, and doctors have no guarantee that the woman receiving it is not already pregnant. A few doctors will give the vaccine, but only to a patient they know well. The process then consists of going on the "pill" for six months, with the injection given at the end of the third month.

I personally believe the old adage, "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," but I really get riled at anti-abortionists who twist facts and shout "murder." These compassionate defenders of a "primitive organism" dismiss the tragedies of unwanted pregnancies—unwanted, unloved, or deformed children, suicide, death from illegal abortion, psychological problems, and the loss of a woman's right to control her own life—with a cluck of the tongue, and "Well, it's your own fault you're in this mess!"

Now that's what I call "a pretty harsh moral judgment!"

OFFERS PLAN TO END THE WAR

Editor,

To the People of the United States of America: Greetings; I have a plan to end this war. Oh, I know, you've heard that one before, and our men are still dying and our money is still being flushed down that drain. The peace talks are getting no where and the bulls have locked horns and neither will give ground.

The administration and the military have the excuse that whatever protests are launched against the war in Vietnam are carried out by a few dumb students or a handful of Pinkos whose activities are not to be taken seriously.

We continue to hear that the American people are tired of this war and want to see an end to our involvement in it, but we see no evidence of this. The administration must be given visual evidence that the majority of mature, tax-paying citizens want out.

If this is your view, are you willing to put forth a little effort to show it? Only two things need to be done.

One: Write to your congressman and senators to stop finances for military operations in Southeast Asia.

Two: Resolve that: All American flags shall be flown at half staff in mourning for those dead and dying in Southeast Asia until such time as our military involvement there shall have ceased, and our war prisoners shall have been returned.

If we can show that this is the will of the majority and our desire is still not accommodated, then we have reason to vote out of office those officials who will not comply with our wishes.

Are you willing to show your hand in this matter, or will you stand aside and continue to let the students do your protesting for you?

It's your government—or is it?

TEACHERS USED ASSCAPEGOATS!

Editor,

It is interesting to note that almost immediately upon ratification of the teachers' contract Monday, May 1st, that the Benton Harbor Board of Education once again is going to use the teachers as scapegoats for a millage proposal.

During the past four years the Board of Education has managed to let the teachers subsidize the building up of the general fund equity. This past school year they have even been able to avoid giving the teachers any raise at all. Despite all of this the board still manages to give the impression to the general public, that it is because of the demands of the teachers in the district that they must ask for additional monies or go bankrupt, or cut teaching staff and punish the children in the district by packing the classrooms.

The board likes to talk about the "wonderful" programs in this district. However, if it were not for teachers these programs would not get off the ground. I am getting somewhat tired of having the board pat teachers on the back with one hand while beating them about the head with the other. There are mighty few teachers who are not dedicated to giving children the best education possible today. On the other hand they would also like to be able to maintain their families above the poverty level.

In closing, I can't help but get the impression that the board feels that it could operate this district more efficiently without teachers.

VAN CLIBURN AN 'OASIS'

Editor,

On Sunday evening I had the extreme good fortune of being able to attend The Twin Cities Symphony—Van Cliburn concert. I should like to express my gratitude to Hendrik de Blij, the members of the Symphony, the numerous patrons, and especially Van Cliburn for truly providing the residents of this community with a moment of "sweetness and light." Amid the gloom and sorrow which are too often the conditions of our lives, Van Cliburn's performance was an oasis of enjoyment. It certainly helped to restore my faith in the constructive potential of the human nature.

I hope that these rewarding events continue to draw support from appreciative people in this area. The demise of the Symphony would indeed be a great loss for the Twin Cities.

VETERAN OPPOSES HOLIDAY CHANGES

Editor,

I would like to hear from all veterans and those who wish to have the Memorial Day, May 30, and the Veterans Day, Nov. 11, changed back to the times that they were named to be observed to honor and respect those who gave all, and for those who had their lives completely altered by their service for Our Country.

Those days were changed without the consent of the veterans to become, we were told, extra days for play and for commercial "sales" days. Memorial Day, May 30 was first ordered to be observed for Veterans, by General Logan in 1868. For the 94 years I have been here, there was never a change, for over 100 years they were observed on May 30, and the Veterans Day, Nov. 11 has been unchanged for over 50 years, until the change to the Mondays of different dates was made and became an insult to all veterans.

I would like to receive postcards from all who want the days changed back to their times, to send cards with names and addresses so it can be known they care about the days. Maybe if a large number is received, the ones who made the change might change them back where they should be.
